A truly superb rose, the result of a cross between "La France" and "Lady Mary Fitzwilliams." Color, imperial pink. Mr. Schuyler F. The flowers, which are sweetly perfumed, are large, beautifully formed, and of that long tapering shape, with high center.

WE DO NOT SEND THIS ROSE OUT TO BE TRIED, as we have subjected it to the severest tests for over two years, and we can recommend it as a first-class acquisition. It is hoped that every member of the order in Andover will be present. Delegations will be present from Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell and Methuen.

Don't get out of patience with the census man. He isn't a welcome caller to the majority of housewives; he asks too many personal questions; but the law requires it and the poor man is only doing his duty in this respect. Depend upon it his visit is as much an ordeal to himself as it can possibly be to you; in consideration of this fact treat him civilly.

A special business meeting of the Abbott Academy Club of New England was held at the Parker House on Saturday. Mrs. Henry Baldwin was in the chair, and Mrs. Charles E. Adams officiated as secretary. Mrs. Adams was elected secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Maury. At the end of the meeting, the gathering employed two hours in the consumption of a sumptuous spread.

Rum was the cause of another murder in Lawrence last Saturday evening, when Jeremiah Dorgan stabbed and killed Maurice Lane. The details of the facts are disgusting and need not be repeated. It is enough to say that it was the result of a drunken brawl at a house in the locality known as the plains, in which Dorgan, Lane, and a woman figured. Dorgan is 27 years old and Lane 22. Dorgan was arrested and awaits a hearing to-morrow.

The current number of the Phillips Mirror marks the third anniversary of that interesting little monthly magazine, published by the students of the Academy. The editors with the aid of some excellent contributions have brought this May number up to a high standard and it is fully as interesting as any issue, which we have had the pleasure of perusing. It not only possesses a high literary merit but is especially neat and clean typographically. One of the well-written articles "Pierre" is by J. Austin Richards, son of Dr. Richards of town.

The Flower Mission begins its work for the season this afternoon. The ladies who have this in charge, and every week during the summer months prepare and send flowers to places in Boston where they are most heartily appreciated, deserve encouragement. People have been generous in the past years in their contributions, and it is hoped they will continue even more so. The children can help, too, for the ordinary wild flowers, provided they be fresh, are very acceptable. Flowers left with Mrs. Dr. Abbott or Miss Agnes Park on Friday afternoons will be most thankfully received.

About a dozen members of Council No. 62, Royal Arcanum, journeyed to Lowell, Tuesday evening, on W. H. Higgins's tally-ho to attend the banquet and reception to the first three grand officers, of whom Chas. W. Clark of this town is one. Lawrence also took part in the reception and it was a large and very pleasant gathering. Speeches were made by Vice Grand Regent Clark and John N. Cole of this town. The following attended from this town: Regent M. L. Farnham, Secretary Alex. Dick, F. H. Messer, T. F. Pratt, B. Brown, John N. Cole, G. A. Parker, J. Newton Cole, L. H. Eames, John W. Bell.

We are in receipt of a pamphlet containing the program and other matter about the Country Club race meeting to be held at Brookline, May 25, 28, 30 and June 1. Five races are named for each day and some very interesting sport may be looked for. The Country Club is situated about five miles from all railway stations in Boston. The races commence at 2.30 P. M.

Base-Ball.

The Harvard Freshmen will be the opponents of the Phillips team to-morrow afternoon.

Next Monday afternoon the Brown University nine will play here. Donovan, Millard and Lang, old Andover players, are in this team, which is one of the best of college nines. A good game may be expected.

The Vespers of Lowell, while defeated by Phillips 24 to 10 last Saturday afternoon, outfielded and for eight innings outbatted the Academy boys. The latter put up a slow, listless game, and many of the visitors' hits would have been spoiled by good fielding. "Billy" Paige, who for three years did clever work for Andover, was in the box for the Vespers, and Ranney, once Dartmouth's famous catcher, caught him. Paige showed lack of practice, but did well until the ninth inning, when the Andover boys seemed suddenly to awake, and the way they bombarded his curves was a caution. Nine hits, with a total of fourteen, were made and when the slaughter was ended, ten runs had come in. Quite a large number of Lowell people were at the game.

The game scheduled for Wednesday afternoon between Phillips and Tufts College did not come off, as the Phillips management telegraphed about noon that weather and grounds were unsuitable. It promised to be an exciting game and it is hoped another date will be fixed for these two teams to meet.

Next Meeting of the Congregational Club.

The next meeting of the Merrimack Valley Congregational Club will be held at the First Church, Lowell, Monday evening, May 27. Ladies are invited as usual, and after the social hour and supper the meeting will be addressed by Rev. Reuben Thomas, D. D., of Brookline. His subject will be "The Pilgrims as Founders of Institutions in the New World." Special electric lights will pass through Lawrence for Lowell at 4 P. M.

Roger on Scientific Research.

You probably have missed Roger for awhile back, in this busy world anything or anybody is missed for more than a moon. His whole attention has been divided to resurrecting ancestors of whom he is very "fond," (which is a girl's word.) I think old Roger, really, has become attached to the honorable company of ancients we have been training with so long. No play on a stage can compare with the tragedy and comedy in these mere silhouettes of the long forgotten lives that the dim light of tattered records throws on the screen, leaving, as our oriental brethren are said to do, our active imaginations to make an effective setting.

Just now, Roger has been working hard over the pygmy people of the East, the little Negrillo and Negrito and his migrations before his bigger black, yellow and white brothers. I thought that would divert his mind from the pedigree work and if I got him once switched off the absorbing topic, he might allow me a trip to the woods in some new direction, along the old cart paths so blue with violets already, on May 13th. But he has taken a steady and unflagging interest in the daily newspaper, which he compels me to go through carefully for the latest plans of the Electric R. R. managers for suburban transit, adding new fields of exploration for graves and flora; also for any sign of the reduction in designs for petticoats and arm drapery, a return to common sense meaning less friction, more people helped, more good times on the road. I asked him if we had not better say something about sleeves this week to begin a new acquaintance with our old circle of friends. No; he wanted to hear more about the new gas, argon, that scientific men have found mixed in the air in such great proportions that they are using it to account for all known phenomena of life—electricity, heat, light, even hypnotism. We finally settled between us the most rational explanation of the whole puzzle. Argon is really a new gas or combination of old life forces. It has been gradually turned on to our atmosphere this last half century, and the new mixture is being cooked for a new order of beings who are going to be able to breathe something superior to common air, which lately, I agree with Roger, hasn't been quite good enough for rational brain work. Every one, the aged, the dwellers on the coast, the plains, in crowded haunts, and all others, enfeebled beyond resistance, will gradually pass off the stage with gripe or pneumonia or kindred ailments owing to inability to rise to the new order of things, and we shall be succeeded by a race who can only breathe clean air, attenuated and adapted to new conditions demanded for new work. Argon is the stuff that works in the aerial tide that rises and falls to make our cyclonic storms and "bosses" the action of the baser and heavier material which forms its ultimate "body." It is the veritable spirit of matter pushing down into the bottom of things just as the spiritual kingdom in the great world of motives (which always corresponds to the outer world of causes) just as that too is pushing down into our daily lives and overturning and clearing out foul places, testing sham reputations and bringing a new and cleaner breath for the spirit of man as well as his body.

Here Roger's mind came to a halt. He thought scientific and historical research might not be so attractive to the TOWNSMAN Readers after all, as the best way to lay an enormous paper sleeve on a very narrow and up and down figured bit of cloth. New gowns, not new air, was what the clamor was for now. Our only hope was in the bicycle girl who in her new freedom may rise against the penwiper freak of a skirt that is now demoralizing the public taste. New gowns, new air, will make a new set of ancestors. When they did so much for us (and how much only those who read may know) shall we not do more in our every day duty for those who come after?

It is ours to decide what Andover, what our state and nation will be 250 years hence, and no one is too insignificant to be left out in the great building.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a Severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pain in his back and also that his bladder was affected. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial bottle will prove our statement. Price only 50c for large bottle. ## The Star Spangled Banner's Author.

Many interesting things about Francis Scott Key—the author of the Star Spangled Banner—are contained in a pamphlet which may be obtained free from the Key Monument Association of Frederick City, Maryland, by sending one 2 cent stamp for postage. This association is raising funds for a suitable monument to the poet, and they suggest, that in the schools and everywhere, upon or before Flag Day (June 14), this subject be suitably recognized. Contributions, however small, are asked for. Everyone who loves the flag ought to have some small share in building this monument. The governor of Maryland has strongly endorsed the monument. The names of all contributors will be preserved in the crypt of the monument, and published (without amount) in the history of the monument when completed.

The American Sunday-School Union.

A statement of the missionary work of this Society for the fiscal year ending March 1, 1895, has just been issued. The embarrassment of financial pressure has been felt, but in the midst of it the missionary efforts of the Society have been attended with very gratifying results.

There have been in the field 140 men commissioned, of whom 120 were at work during the whole year and 20 during a portion of it. As a result of their labors 1,763 new Sunday-schools were organized, having 65,977 teachers and scholars, 513 were reorganized, and aid was given to existing schools 8,324 times. But in addition to this large number of 2,276 schools set in operation, special blessings have followed the evangelistic labors of the missionary. In many reports only "numerous conversions" are mentioned, in other cases only partial reports are given; and yet hopeful conversions to the very large number of 10,092 have been reported in connection with the work of the missionaries. These missionaries also made 107,230 visits to families for religious instruction and prayer, and distributed 6,796 Bibles and Testaments. The organization of churches has followed in 180 cases.

In addition to this, the missionaries in Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota and Arkansas have carefully distributed many thousand dollars worth of provisions and many tons of clothing to the people in extreme destitution from the famine prevailing in those sections. Moreover, upwards of one million and a quarter copies of illustrated Sunday-school papers published by the society were given to hospitals, prisons, almshouses, and reformatories in all parts of the land.

In a recent editorial, the Salem, Oregon, Independent says: "Time and again have we seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy tried and never without the most satisfactory results. Whenever we see a person afflicted with hoarseness, with a cough or cold, we invariably advise them to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy; and when they do, they never regret it. It always does the work, and does it well." For sale by all druggists.

Simplified Elocution.

A new book, bearing the above title, by Edwin Gordon Lawrence, teacher of elocution and director of the Lawrence School of Acting, has just been issued. Simplified Elocution is a comprehensive system of vocal and physical gymnastics; it contains explicit instructions for the cultivation of the speaking voice and gesture; directions for the production of breath, sound and speech, and a thorough explanation of the muscles and organs employed; rules for articulation, modulation, emphasis and delivery; postures and movements of the feet, body, arms, head, eyes, etc. To the treatise is added a Complete Speaker, consisting of selections in poetry and prose suitable for recitation, which, as the author says in his introduction, "are not chosen on account of their newness, but from their intrinsic merit and their adaptability as exercises."

The work is designed for the special use of teachers, actors, students, colleges, schools, and all those who wish to perfect themselves in the noble art of expression.

The book, which contains 232 pages, is handsomely bound in cloth and gold, and will be sent postage free on receipt of $1.00. [New York: published by the author, 106 West 42d Street.]

BEFORE I could get relief from a most horrible blood disease, I had spent hundreds of dollars TRYING various remedies and physicians, none of which did me any good. My finger nails came off, and my hair came out, leaving me perfectly bald. I then went to HOT SPRINGS Hoping to be cured by this celebrated treatment, but very soon became disgusted, and decided to TRY THE EFFECT was truly wonderful. I commenced to recover after taking the first bottle, and by the time I had taken twelve bottles I was entirely cured—cured by S. S. S. when the world-renowned Hot Springs had failed.

He Deceived the People.

AND IS IN THE PENITENTIARY FOR A YEAR.

At Atlanta, Iowa, on May 7, C. M. Ailor, alias "Crip," Ailor, was convicted of deceiving the people by selling a worthless compound, which he represented to be Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was sentenced by Judge Macy to one year at hard labor in the Iowa Penitentiary. Ailor's methods were those of a travelling fakir. He has been travelling through Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, making stands of a day or more in each town, and representing himself as an agent under salary from C. I. Hood & Co., and selling his concoction at one dollar or fifty cents per bottle, giving with each sale several other worthless articles. Citizens of Griswold, Iowa, became suspicious and ascertaining from a druggist that Ailor's compound was not Hood's Sarsaparilla, but merely colored water, had him arrested. Three indictments were found against him, the jury convicted him after only thirty minutes deliberation, and he was sentenced—as above. The incident suggests the wisdom of purchasing medicines only of reputable dealers whom you know. Hood's Sarsaparilla is never sold by peddlers, and such offering it should be at once reported to the authorities, or to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.—From the Lowell Morning Citizen.

Don't Clip Postal Cards.

It is ruled by the postal authorities that any reduction of the size of a postal card by clipping, rounding off the corners or otherwise, will subject the receiver of the card to a charge of one cent on delivery, says the Middleboro' Gazette. This makes the cost of a postal card equivalent to letter postage. Many persons inclose postal cards to correspondents in envelopes too small, and imagine that a little clipping won't make any difference. Others round off the corners for ornamental purposes of convenience in handling. But the practice is wrong.

TO LET

FOR THE SUMMER MONTHS

House, stable and land formerly owned and occupied by Benjamin Boynton, near the stone church in West Parish, Andover, Mass.

The sentencing of the Haverhill Aldermen, who were convicted of bribery, ends this famous case. District Attorney Moody deserves the commendation of every lover of good government for his work in bringing to punishment these representatives of an altogether too large a class of corrupt public officials. Let the good work go on, and the government of cities will soon be placed in hands that can be trusted and not in the hands of those who want office solely for just what there is in it.

It does not take but a very little for one to show his hogish, mean, and crabbed disposition. For instance, when one in a carriage meets a wheelman and makes special effort to occupy the whole road to annoy the wheelman and perhaps endanger his safety, he is nothing less than a "mean cuss." The wheel has as much right to a share of the road as any other vehicle, and vice versa.—Westboro Chronotype.

"Jess so," and extending that vice versa—other vehicles have as much right as the wheel, and not a few bicyclists need to learn this truism just as much as some drivers need to learn the first one.

And speaking of rights in the road, will somebody please define the rights of the pedestrian in these days of non-enforcement of the bicycle-on-the-side-walk law in Andover. Only the gutter seems to be left.

The removal of C. B. Mason from Andover in the near future will take away one who has not only had a deep interest in the town, but who has in his business as a builder been able to shape that interest toward the improvement of the community. While regretting his removal, we wish Mr. Mason that larger prosperity than he hopes to find in his new location, and believe we may assure him of a cordial interest of many of our citizens in his success, wherever he may be located.

Carbons Broken as Well as Globes.

Mr. Editor:
I was much pleased to learn by your last week's paper that a reward was offered for the breaking of the globes of the area. I think they should go a step further and include the breaking out of the carbons, which is done so often. At the corner of Salem Street and Highland Road, there has been no globe since last September on the arc light, and the carbons have been broken out nearly if not quite a third of the time. The darkness has been intense. A CITIZEN.

Keep off the Caterpillars.

A correspondent sends in the following suggestion to the A. V. I. S. "We hope the Village Improvement Society will hold a close care on the trees. The caterpillars are gaining ground and must be overcome or they will do our foliage much injury. Those on Main St. are an eye sore."

Annual Meeting of the Society of Organized Charity.

The annual meeting of the Society of Organized Charity will be held in the Town Hall, Tuesday, May 21, at 8 o'clock. Reports will be made from the various departments of the work of the society, and there will be addresses by Rev. Chas. F. Dole, Vice-President of the Boston Society of Associated Charity, and Rev. F. R. Shipman of Andover. The public are invited to come and see what the society has been doing, and what it proposes to do.

Concert by Phillips Musical Clubs.

A large and enthusiastic audience was present at the Town Hall Tuesday night to hear the annual concert by the Phillips Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs. The concert, as a whole, was an especially pleasing one and of an unusually good character. The audience fully appreciated the efforts of the young men to please them, judging by the hearty applause given the different selections. "Ben Bolt" and "The Man in the Moon's Ball," took particularly well, and Mr. Brown's topical song, with its many hits, was loudly applauded and he was kept singing until his long string of verses was exhausted. The Banjo Club did exceptionally well, and the Mandolin Club, it was thought by many, surpassed all previous organizations of this kind. The leaders of the clubs, Mr. Brown of the Glee, Mr. Spence of the Banjo, and Mr. Babcock of the Mandolin, have every reason to be pleased with the splendid result of the '95 concert.

The New Catholic Church.

As the batters for the new St. Augustine's Church would indicate, the building will be changed somewhat in location and will have the present site of the parochial residence, which will in turn stand about where the old church did. The new building will be placed about 33 feet back from the sidewalk, bringing it about midway between Essex and Pearson Streets. The architect of the building is P. W. Ford of Boston, and the contractor, Mr. Cochran of Lowell. It is understood that the church will be built entirely of brick with stone trimmings, and will be 125 feet long and 55 feet wide.

It is said to be modelled after the style of a church in East Bridgewater, one of the finest Catholic edifices in the state. It is estimated that the total cost will be in the vicinity of $35,000, and it is expected that it will in part be completed and ready for occupancy by the last of November. The basement will be used at first for church purposes, as the upper part will not be finished at the beginning.

In Memoriam.

At midnight of Tuesday, the fourteenth day of May, Orrville A. (Munroe), wife of Joseph H. Morrill, entered into rest. A sweet and attractive personality was taken then from her home of the past twelve years. Her long invalidism had made her a stranger to most of our citizens. Only a few were aware of her brave, noble character, which brightened the visit of her physicians and directed the movement of her large household. She was a woman of marked executive ability. In her the New England conscience and the New England charity acted and reacted on one another. Her love of flowers and animals was part of her nature. But more winsome still was her love of humanity, which relieved want and enlightened ignorance, when none knew it save her God.
Mrs. Morrill was a native of Concord, N.H., where she had spent fifty years doing good. Her heroism here is no secret to some. Her old companions there will recall her ceaseless and cheerful activity in those happy days. In her energy and exactness she was treasurer of the Widows and Orphans Fund, connected with the Odd Fellows. With her taste and enthusiasm she was organist of the Second Baptist Church. There and here simplicity, refinement, generosity, dignity, patience, affection, made her path a benediction. Who that loved her would call her back from the paradise she has won?
The funeral services will be conducted by her rector, Rev. Mr. Palmer, at her late residence, on Saturday, May 18, at one o'clock. Friends and neighbors are cordially invited to be present.

Obituary.

JOHN G. FINDLEY.

There are only a few of our residents who do not remember with respect and honor John G. Findley, for years a well-known fish dealer here. All will be sorry to learn of his death, which occurred last Saturday at Amesbury where he has lived a quiet life for some thirteen years. For the past six months he has been ill with inflammatory rheumatism, which coupled with heart failure, brought a peaceful death.

Mr. Findley was born in Scotland in 1812 and 52 years ago with his wife and three children he left his home in Montrose and came to this country, Andover being his first destination. He immediately entered the employ of the Smith & Dove Company as a flax dresser. He, however, remained there but a short time, but in company with William Barnett went to Rockport, Mass., starting in the fish business. They were first in this country, as far as is known, to introduce the smoking of "haddie." Mr. Findley drove a cart back and forth from Rockport to Andover, but finally after about ten years, having established a large route here, and at the request of many persons he moved back to Andover and opened a fish market. For thirty years afterwards he carried on a large and successful fish business, and became one of Andover's most prosperous citizens. He finally retired from active business and in 1882 removed to Amesbury, where he has since resided.

Mr. Findley's first wife died in 1876 and he married again in 1878. During his long residence in Andover the deceased was honored for his sober, temperate, industrious and straightforward life and during his later residence in Amesbury he also made a large number of friends, who respected him for his upright living.

He was a member of the Free Church, having joined as early 1858, and so it was very fitting that the last sad rites over his remains should be held in this his church home for so many years. Impressive services were conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. F. A. Wilson, and interment was in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Besides a widow, the deceased leaves four daughters and three sons: Mrs. Nathaniel F. Blatchford of Linekin, Me., Mrs. James A. Roache of North Andover, Miss Catherine A. Findley, Athens, O., Mrs. Walter B. Allen of town, Richard M. and William F. Findley of town and Fred A. of Boston.

ABBOTT VILLAGE.

Alexander Dick and family spent last Sunday with friends in Boston.

Some of the machinery is being moved from the Frye Village mills to the mills here.

The boys are making use of the electric light wire on the hill for a swing. It serves for some good purpose at least.

James Anderson has an interesting letter in another column in reply to a communication in last week's paper.

The local cricket team expected to play a game with the Athletics of Lawrence to-morrow afternoon, but the latter have sent word that they are unable to come. The first game then will be one week from to-morrow with the Bostonians at Boston. Capt. Pearson is showing much interest and energy in getting together a good team, and it is hoped all will show a like spirit. It is understood that he intends to pay more attention, than has been shown before, to young players and to give the more promising ones a chance in the games. Although the prospects for a strong team are not as good as in some former years, still good conscientious work with the material at hand ought to make a creditable eleven.

Communication.

To the Editor of the Townsman:
In your issue of the 10th inst. appear two letters, in answer to one by G. A. Christie of the week before, correcting some presumed error or omission in a previous letter by Mr. Mills.

The letter signed F. S. Mills, and dated May 6th, is eminently fair and just, except in the last line where he refers to Alexander Wilson's birth as being an accident. The birth of a human being is not an accident, but an event, as natural and wonderful as the setting of the sun, or the ebb and flow of the tide, an event calculated to fill men's mind with awe, with wonder and admiration, for "an honest man's the noblest work of God." The letter signed "Spinster" is neither right, nor is it in good taste. "We should never have heard of Wilson if he had stayed in Scotland and sung of 'Watlies' and 'Megs,'" is an expression, of which every fair minded American reader of last week's TOWNSMAN must feel ashamed.

Alexander Wilson's defence of the poetic claims of Ferguson against Allan Ramsay, at Edinburgh, and his poem in the same cause, "The Laurel Disputed," his contributions to The Bee, together with his being compelled to burn with his own hands, at the Paisley Cross, a label he had written upon a resident of that town, had already secured for his name a place in history, long before he came to America (was transplanted), or perhaps thought of studying ornithology. Spinster's remark, "and if Mr. Christie stays long enough we will make something of a place for him, if only a critic and a reviewer of other men," sounds crabbed and spinster like.

Does "Spinster" know that there was another Wilson born at Paisley, Scotland, of whom most readers have heard, although there is no record of his having been "transplanted," or even having visited America. I refer to the famous John Wilson, The Christopher North of Blackwood's Magazine, and professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Edinburgh, and of whom it has been said, "It is scarcely exaggeration to speak of Wilson, along with Burns and Scott, as a member of the trinity (so to speak) of Scottish literary genius."

Has "Spinster" ever heard of the other two famous men mentioned above, Burns and Scott, who are known the world over?

These are but a few of the ambitious students who have developed, and found fame, without having been "transplanted" to this great place (country).

It detracts nothing from the fame of Wilson, or the credit of Scotland, to acknowledge him as an American ornithologist. Rather, every Scotchman should feel proud of the fact that a son of Scotland has left behind him the inspiring influence of a country which has produced a Bruce and a Wallace, and has become the father of American ornithology.

Marriage.

In Lowell, May 3, by Rev. Wm. H. Yarrow, Orrell Ashton of Ballardvale and Hannah Moss of Lowell.

Death.

In Andover, May 14, at her residence on School Street, Mrs. Orrville A. (Munroe) Morrill. Funeral Saturday, May 18, at 1 o'clock.

In Amesbury, May 11, John G. Findley, formerly of Andover, aged 53 years.

"Ten people out of a dozen are invalids," says a recent medical authority. At least eight out of these ten, it is safe to allow, are suffering from some form of blood-disease which a persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla would be sure to cure. Then, don't be an invalid.

"CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," thus making them strong, durable and waterproof. When soiled they can be cleaned by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. No other waterproof goods are made with this interlining, consequently no other goods can possibly give satisfaction. Do not forget that every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

Insist upon goods so marked and refuse anything else if offered. If your dealer does not keep them you can procure a sample from us direct by enclosing amount and stating size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The Celluloid Company,
427-429 Broadway, New York.

BALLARD VALE.

The Rev. J. C. Evans and wife are spending this week at Brookline, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Grinstead of Orange, N. J., are stopping at the home of Mr. Charles Greene.

Dr. C. H. Shattuck in company with Dr. Russell of Lawrence is enjoying a week's fishing at Jackman, Maine.

Oliver C. Dresser of the Law Department of the Boston University spent Sunday at the home of M. E. Clemons.

William F. Matthews is to occupy one half of the Thornton house on Lowell Street.

Miss Nellie Holmes left town to-day for Tilton, N. H., where she will visit relatives.

Ex-Representative Charles Greene has with others been detailed by William F. Bartlett, Post 99 G. A. R., to address the school children on the day proceeding Memorial Day.

The Rev. Vinal Hills gave an interesting talk on Africa before Ballardvale Lodge of Good Templars last Monday evening. The stereopticon was used to illustrate the subject.

The society connected with the Union Congregational Church are making arrangements for an entertainment to be given June 5th in Bradlee Hall. The proceeds of which are to be used to defray expenses of painting their house of worship.

Up-to-date Enterprise.

One business house in Lawrence is determined not to be beaten by the extreme of heat and cold. Last week Bicknell Bros. advertised "The Popular Thing, Hot Weather Clothing." This week they advertise heavy winter overcoats and ulsters, game underwear lined with seal-skin, and straw hats with adjustable buffalo ear pieces. This is surely up-to-date enterprise.

He Returned the Tip.

The Bristol (England) Mercury says that while Paderewski, the pianist, was in a nearby town recently he received a courteously worded letter asking to allow an invalid lady to call upon him and hear him play one piece, promising in return for "this great treat" a donation of half a guinea, which was tendered with much apology. The letter was so worded as to be a courteous and delicate appeal to the pianist's generosity. The letter had the desired effect, and he appointed a time. Punctual to the moment, the lady appeared, and Paderewski played her a few pieces. The lady thanked him and slipped the promised half guinea in the most gracious mode of tip giving into his palm. "Ah! what is this?" blandly asked the pianist. "The half guinea I promised you." "I really believe," he answered, with a smile, "that I shall be able to get to the next town without it," saying which he returned the proffered largesse, bowed the lady out and sat down to his interrupted breakfast.

The Tramp's Opportunity.

Queer things happen in this world. A tramp took refuge in an old graveyard in Georgia and prepared for a sound night's rest between two graves. About the hour when churchyards are supposed to "yawn" he was awakened by a strange noise, and on looking up he discovered an escaped convict in the act of filing his shackles. As the tramp stood up the convict, in superstitious terror, fell upon his knees, whereupon the tramp arrested him, delivered him over to the authorities at the camp near by and received a reward of $30.—Atlanta Constitution.

He was a young Prince Charming, beautiful, brave, capable of enduring hardships and, till his misfortune, a noble, not only kind, but of an uncommon and almost impolitic humanity. Well might Walton, the spy, pronounce him, with the blood of John Sobieski in his veins, "a far more dangerous enemy to the present establishment of the government in England than ever his father was."

In those days, when a king of some sort was a necessity, England seemed to have in Charles a king born to be adored. But the tendency of things was inevitably against him. He appears, I own to myself, to have had better qualities than any man of his line since the fourth James fell at Flodden. There was nothing in his Scotch expedition, till the fatal morrow of Culloden, that did not become a gentleman and a king. The Camerons, a feeble, but virulent remnant of the old leaven of the covenant, publicly blamed his "foolish lenity and pity" to the "redcoats whom Providence put into his hands."

If his courage is accused, so has that of Marlborough been, and the evidence of Malcolm McLeod, "never was a man not a coward or prudent, nor a man not rash or brave," may be taken as disposing of a childish malevolent accusation. He was gentle and considerate till misfortune taught him suspicion and hope deferred made the heart sick. The exposure, which he bore so gallantly in the highlands, and the habits of that country, taught him his fatal vice, which corrupted and debased a character naturally noble and generous.—Scribner's Magazine.

THE MODERN SAFE.

AN UP TO DATE FIREPROOF AND BURGLAR PROOF DEPOSITORY.

Skillful Workmanship Displayed in Its Manufacture—Locks With Simple Mechanism That Are Extremely Hard to Open If You Don't Know How.

The latest burglar proof safes and vaults are magnificent specimens of skillful workmanship. Although the doors often weigh tons, they swing as easily on their hinges as a window shutter. After the first great door is thrown back and displays its glittering array of bright locks, its glass incased clocks and its smooth steel bolts there is another door almost as strong, with bolts and locks of its own. When this is open it reveals three other doors. The upper two are of this steel and have no locks. Only papers and books are to be kept in the little pockets or pigeonholes which they inclose.

Under them and shutting in the cash drawer there is the third door with its own lock and bolts. In this safe the size of the cash repository bears about the same relation to the size of the whole safe as a pumpkin seed does to the pumpkin. And it is not only burglar proof but fireproof—warranted, in fact, to stand for at least 75 hours the greatest amount of heat that any burning building could give it.

The making of a safe of this kind is a complicated and expensive operation. All the steel used comes in the form of plates from the works. After having the necessary screw holes bored in them they are heated to a high temperature and then tempered by suddenly immersing them in water. When they come out they are often a little twisted and warped, and have to be rolled cold and sometimes polished clean by a swiftly moving emery wheel. The noise of this operation is ear splitting and so rasping that a man with ordinary nerves can hardly endure it. When the plate is perfectly level it is transferred to another machine, where it is clamped tight, and an emery wheel shaves off the edges.

The plates are now put together, first one of hard steel, then one of wrought iron or soft steel, and so on until the necessary thickness is obtained. From the iron the safe receives its tenacious qualities—it cannot be cracked or broken as easily as steel, and the steel imparts a hardness that defies the burglar's drill. The screws are also made of combined steel and iron. Each of them is only long enough to reach through two plates, and the screws which join the third, fourth and fifth plates to the first are never directly under any other screws, so that there is no chance for a burglar to bore down through a row of screws. The plates are also drawn very close together, for if any space was left between them a safe blower might succeed in getting his dynamite into it.

Between the interior and exterior walls of the safe a large amount of hydraulic cement, combined with other ingredients, usually according to a secret recipe, is packed solidly. In case of fire the theory is that the water in the cement—about 43 per cent—will, owing to the heat of the outside covering, become steam, partially, at least, and be driven close to the inner wall. Here it will remain and furnish a blanket impervious to heat. All the bolts are cylindrical and from an inch up to two inches in diameter.

Combination locks are now used exclusively. The mechanism of most of them is extremely simple. In one lock there are a number of round brass disks or "tumblers," each pivoted at the center on a small shaft which runs through the safe door and connects with the lock knob. Each tumbler has a slit in it just the size of the steel arm which controls the bolts and reaching nearly back to the center. When all these slits are together and pointing in exactly the same direction the arm slips into them and the bolts can be thrown. But if the slit in a single one of the tumblers is even a thousandth of an inch out of line the arm will not slip back. The disks are set a short distance apart and small screws with big heads are fastened at random over them. As these strike together in turning the tumblers whirl, and a man might turn the lock knob a thousand years without once getting the slits in all the tumblers together. But the man who knows just how far to turn one way and then how far back again according to the combination numbers has no trouble at all.

The combination and numbers are easily changed by changing the screws in the disk. Many of the best safes and vaults are now being provided with time locks. Two and sometimes three clocks are inclosed in glass cases just inside of the safe door. When the door is locked, no one can open it again until the clock hands have traveled the set distance around the dial and touched a little trigger which releases the bolts. More than one clock is used, so that if one runs down the others will go on and perform their duty. In the big banks the vaults are closed about 5 o'clock in the evening and set to open a little before 9 o'clock in the morning. It is a general impression that an expert burglar can open a combination lock by listening to the clicking sounds, but dealers say it is not possible for any one to do it. If a safe owner forgets his combination, the safe has to be bored into. There is no other way of opening it.—Chicago Record.

The Next Best Thing.

The robber presented his glittering pistol. "Have you a vacancy in your book-keeping staff?" he demanded.

The president of the bank shook his head.

"Well," the outlaw sighed—he was palpably chagrined—"I'll have to be contented, then, with what cash you have on hand."

Stealing $17,412.18, he left the place.—Detroit Tribune.

CLOSING SCENES OF THE WAR.

A Confederate Band Which Deserted In a Body to Washington.

In the latter part of the month of March, 1865, Washington saw many signs of collapse of the rebellion. The Confederate army appeared to be badly demoralized, and deserters, who arrived constantly in large numbers, reported that men from Alabama, Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas could not be expected to have any heart in a fight which then seemed only for the defense of Virginia, while their own states were overrun by the armies of the Union. During the month of March more than 8,000 deserters were received at Washington, and great numbers were quartered at Fort Monroe, Annapolis and other points nearer the lines, where they were put to work in the quartermaster's department or in the naval service.

One curiosity of the times was a Confederate regimental band which had deserted in a body with its instruments and was allowed to march through the streets of the national capital playing Union airs. This was one of the oddest signs of the final break up. People recalled a story, told by Hooker, that when the Union army scaled and occupied Lookout Mountain a rebel sentry on duty on the crest of one of the most difficult precipices saw our men pile up in solid masses over steep hills which had been thought inaccessible and was so surprised that he forgot to run, but stood with feet rooted to the spot, watching the Union forces climbing up, and streaming past him, and driving the enemy far to the rear, until he was left alone, a statue of amazement. Recovering himself at last, he threw down his musket, stripped off his rebel gray jacket, stood on them both, and looking far off to the sunny south stretched out as a map below him, said, "How are you, Southern Confederacy?"

But notwithstanding such indications of a collapse of the rebellion at this very time many northern Union newspapers, led by Horace Greeley and others of his stamp, were demanding that appeals should be made to the southern people "to stop the flow of blood and the waste of treasure," and that some message should be sent to the southerners "so terse that it will surely be circulated and so lucid that it cannot be misconstrued or perverted," by way of an invitation to cease fighting. Curiously enough, the nearer the time came for a final surrender the more fervid was the demand for negotiation and appeal from the unreasonable radicals in the ranks of northern Unionists. But all this was soon to end, and while a small party was asking, "Why not negotiate?" the downfall came.—Noah Brooks in Century.

Food Tin Cans.

In a recent government report by Dr. H. W. Wiley it is stated that in Germany the law requires that the tins employed for holding canned goods shall not contain more than 1 per cent of lead, while in this country there is no restriction whatever in regard to the character of the tin used, the result of this latter fact being the employment of cans in some cases containing as high as 12 per cent of lead. This practice prevails, notwithstanding the unanimity among physiologists as to the effect of lead salts upon the human system, the continual ingestion of even minute quantities of lead into the system being followed eventually by the most serious consequences—painter's colic, lead palsy and other trying diseases well known to physicians being the direct effects of continual exposure of the system to any such minute portions of lead salts. It is said to be possible to exclude the latter by requiring that the tin shall not contain more than, say, 1 1/2 per cent of lead; also that the solder be as free from lead as possible.

In Germany the solder made use of in sealing the cans is not allowed to contain over 10 per cent of lead, while in this country the analysis of numerous samples of the solder applied shows that it contains fully 50 per cent of lead, in addition to this being the lack of care to prevent such solder from coming into contact with the contents of the can, and large surfaces of solder on the seams are often found exposed to the action of the acid contents of the can.

Tourists' Gold In Italy.

At the British embassy to the king of Italy a calculation was made some time ago of the amount of gold brought by travelers into Italy every year. By far the largest number of these travelers come from England and the United States. The calculations made it evident that no less than £20,000,000, or $100,000,000, are brought into this country and left here by these travelers. In the scantiest years that sum has not been less than £14,000,000, while on other occasions it has risen to £22,000,000. Mr. Stamer, a writer on Italy, relates that an old woman in Sorrento once told him that the people in England had no sun, because the English had told her time and again that it was not for society they had come to Italy, but to see the sun. Besides all the English were fair and ruddy. If they had had a sun, why were they not all sunburnt? If they do get sunshine in Italy, as they do, they pay very sweetly for it.—Rome Letter in Baltimore Sun.

Advice From the Gallery.

Of the Dublin gallery boys a famous baritone, in his reminiscences, tells some facetious tales, one of "Faust," in which he played Valentine: "After the duel, Martha, who rushed in at the head of the crowd, raised my head and held me in her arms during the first part of the scene. There was a deathlike stillness in the house, which was interrupted by a voice from the gallery calling out, 'Unbaiton his weak!'"—Dublin Herald.

Suggested by His Helpmate.

Mr. Billus—I've had a roaring in my head all day. I think I'll consult a doctor about it.

Mrs. Billus—Hadin't you better consult a wheelwright?—Chicago Tribune.

INDIANS AND THE RAINBOW.

The Zuni Think the Heavenly Phenomenon Embodies the Form of a Demon.

Captain Trevitt W. Okey of Los Angeles, Cal., for many years stationed in Arizona and New Mexico with the regular army, told about the myths and superstitions of the Zuni Indians to a group of friends at a Broadway hotel one evening.

"In the Zuni mind," said he, "the rainbow has ever been a deified animal, having the attributes of a human being and also the body and some of the functions of a measuring worm. Obviously the striped back and arched attitude of the measuring worm, its sudden appearance and disappearance among the leaves of the plants which it inhabits, are the analogies upon which this personification is based. As the measuring worm consumes the herbage of the plants and causes them to dry up, so the rainbow, which appears only after the rain, is supposed by the simple-minded Indian to cause a cessation of rain, and consequently to be the originator of droughts, under the influence of which plants wither away, as they do under the ravages of the measuring worms."

"It will be seen that the visible phenomenon called the rainbow gets by analogy the personality of the measuring worm, while from the worm in turn the rainbow gets its function as a god. Of this the cessation of the rain on the appearance of the rainbow is adduced as proof. The fading of the flowers is attributed to the rainbow, which, consuming their imperceptible existences, thus derives his brilliant coloring, just as it is believed that the measuring worm gets his green, yellow and red stripes from the leaves and flowers which it devours."

"The influence of this union upon the Zuni mind is to place the rainbow among the malignant gods. It is frequently painted on war shields and made a demon to be propitiated, yet shunned. When a rainbow appears in the sky, the Zuni Indians and those of many other tribes turn their backs upon the beautiful sight and covertly imprecate the unfriendly spirit."—New York World.

"THE BRACELET."

It Was Beautiful Until It Became a Reminder of His Doubt.

"Here," he said, "is a bracelet. Wear it always, that like our love it may prove endless and unbroken in its circle." And from a silken case, in which the name of the goldsmith glistened, he drew the pledge of their new affections. She stood before him, radiantly palpitating, as it seemed to him in the ecstasy of his attention—perhaps with the pleasure of so rare a trinket. The diamonds lost their luster in the rapture which her flashing eyes conveyed. Holding her hand, he was adjusting the gift to the flexible wrist into which tapered her well rounded arm—its skin seemed whiter now, as if expressive of so much purity about to receive the binding earnest of his words.

"But," he said, hesitating suddenly, "I must tell you, and yet why should I? This bracelet, by the touch of some mysterious magic—so the jeweler tells me, and yet I can hardly believe it—shrinks about the wrist of her who proves untrue, and its wearer loses forever the use of her hand, which then hangs limp and lifeless, in token of her perjury."

"Surely," she answered, "you cannot wish to put me to such a test as this who need none. I should wear it were it not to me but an eternal reminder of your doubt, each diamond but an eye to watch—and it is much too gaudy. A plain ring will do for me."—Philadelphia Press.

Indignant.

There used to be an old porter at a certain Irish railway station who was more remarkable for independence of character than attention to his duties. On one occasion two of the directors were traveling over the line and noticed that the name of this station was not called, the neglect being the more serious as it was a junction. This was made the subject of complaint, and old Charley, who was the delinquent, was promptly brought to book and reprimanded.

He was very wroth that any one should find fault with him and thirsted for revenge. So, keeping a lookout until he saw the directors on their return journey, he stood opposite their carriage and shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Cookstown Junction! Change here for Randalstown, Castledawson, Magherafelt, Money more and all stations on the Cookstown line, and don't say, ye blaggards, ye weren't told!"—London Answers.

The Best Signal Light System.

The best night signal lights are those invented by Lieutenant Very of our navy, and named after him Very's signals. The consist of a white, a red and a green star, each fired into the air from a pistol, so that by firing one, two or three of them in quick succession and in different orders, with a pause between the groups, different letters or signal numbers can be made until a sentence is complete. They can be easily read from vessels 12 miles away.—St. Nicholas.

"Old Kentucky Home."

"Old Kentucky Home" is the twentieth song in Foster's book of plantation melodies, though when and under what circumstances it was composed cannot be exactly stated. One writer on musical curios says that it was suggested by an allusion that Foster heard a slave make to his former home in the Blue Grass State.

The "Celestial Empire," referring to the domain of China, has a significance in the Chinese legend that the early rulers of that country were all deities.

Pope's features were small and delicate. All his life he was very pale and looked sickly.

TWO AUTOGRAPHS.

Bismarck Saw Von Moltke's Sentiment and Went Him One Better.

A young German lady of rank, possessed of great personal charms and singularly winning manners, the daughter of a prominent politician, herself now a happy wife and mother, once beguiled Moltke, who was paying a brief visit to her father's country home in Silesia, into writing something in her autograph album. This was the entry:

Luge vergeht,
Wahrheit besteht.
V. MOLTKE, Feldmarschall.

Which in English would be:
A lie must fall;
Truth will prevail.

The wily dame now determined to bide her time until she should be able to match Moltke's dictum. When her family had again settled down in their Berlin quarters for the winter season, Prince Bismarck called one afternoon, and she showed him her book, calling his attention to what "the great strategist had written, adding artlessly: "Do you think the same, dear prince? Perhaps you would like to add your comment? And on the same page? Oh, thank you so very much! And may I send the volume to the Wilhelmstrasse?" The chancellor next day returned the book, now a greatly treasured family possession, and this is what he had written beneath the contribution of his colleague:

Wohl weiss ich, dass in jener Welt
Die Wahrheit stets den Sieg behält
Doch gegen Lüge dieses Lebens
Kampf selbst ein Feldmarschall vergebens.
V. BISMARCK, Reichskanzler.

Very roughly Englished, the chancellor's lines might run something like this:

In future worlds, beyond the pale,
The truth is strong and shall prevail.
But 'gainst our mundane lies, 'tis plain,
Field marshals even fight in vain.
—Westminster Gazette.

LAMPS THAT ARE CLOCKS.

They Were Commonly Used In The Seventeenth Century.

Of the various examples that have been given of early specimens of the clockmaker's art not the least interesting are the several types of lamp clocks. One of these was of a kind quite common in the seventeenth century and consisted of a lamp burner placed at the base of a glass oil receptacle mounted vertically on a suitable standard. The oil reservoir had attached to it a scale, facing the burner and showing the hours, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the lamp was to be lighted in winter, and ending at 7 o'clock in the morning. The lamp being lighted, the gradually descending level of the oil, as combustion proceeded, marked the hours.

The other device, of later origin, dating back to the beginning of the present century, utilized the same principle. It consisted of two communicating oil chambers, superposed by a clock dial. In one of the chambers was placed a night lamp to illuminate this dial, and in the other was suspended a float from a cord which passed around a small pulley. The latter was mounted on a horizontal axis ending in the center of the dial. The float of course descended as the oil was consumed and carried the index hand along with it, thus making the hours precisely as in the case already cited. At their best these timepieces could have had only an indifferent degree of accuracy, yet they probably served their purpose well and certainly are interesting at the present time as illustrating some of the expedients adopted by mechanics of an earlier period.—Cassier's Magazine.

SAMPLE WEAVING

All That Will Be Done at Olneyville Mills For the Present.

Operatives Have One More Chance to Return—They Are Given Until Next Friday to Make Up Their Minds.

PROVIDENCE, May 13.—All the Olneyville mills are now closed, but it is the intention of the manufacturers to continue to weave samples until the work is completed. The work on the samples will be commenced at once, and will be done by the overseers, secondhands and the few loom fixers who have not left the mills.

A special meeting of the Manufacturers' club was held Saturday afternoon and the situation was discussed. It was decided that the weaving of samples did not conflict with the agreement to keep the mills closed, as it would be impossible to obtain a lightweight market in the fall, if all samples were not ready at that time.

It was voted to notify the operatives that there was still time to prevent a long period of idleness if the operatives voted to return in time to give the mill owners notice next Friday. The mills will probably be opened the following Monday, but if the notification is allowed to pass unheeded, it will be too late to prevent the closing of the mills until fall, as the New York commission houses will not consent to hold the market longer.

Operatives Will Fight It Out.

The district council authorized a press committee to make a statement saying that the operatives had been waiting for the manufacturers to carry out their threat. They believe that the mill owners do not mean what they say. They would fight now just as well as they did in '93.

Twenty-five collectors will leave Olneyville today for Pascoag, Woonsocket, Pawtucket and Lymanville, R. I.; Maynard, Mass.; New Bedford, Fall River, Lawrence and Fitchburg; Hanover, N. H.; Rockville, Me., and Lewiston, and Philadelphia. The union expects good results.

The strikers have money enough to last six weeks, and with the smallest expected income, they can stay out from 15 to 20 weeks. The district council denied that there is any break in the ranks of the strikers. They say that if the manufacturers propose to wait until they go back to work under the old scale, they will never start their mills again.

TURKS UPHELD.

Ashmead-Bartlett Expresses Doubt as to the Armenian Atrocities.

SIR ELLIS ASHMEAD-BARTLETT.

LONDON, May 16.—A meeting of the Central Association of Mohammedans of London was held last night to protest against the agitation which so vigorously pushed on the Armenian atrocities. Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett expressed his doubts that any deliberate atrocities were committed in Armenia by the troops. The Armenian agitation was declared to be an attack on Mohammedanism. Mr. Gladstone and the Duke of Argyll were bitterly attacked for their reflection upon the Turkish government. A disturbance occurred at this, and Sir Ellis personally ejected the disturbers. Sir Ellis is American-born, Brooklyn having been his birthplace. He was educated in Massachusetts at Amherst college.

The trial at Newburyport was continued Wednesday and Thursday forenoon, and several witnesses from town were examined. Among those who testified were: Edward L. Hall, Mrs. Eliza Nason, Mr. Frank E. Weil, night watchman Soraghan, Sam. D. Stevens, George L. Harris, who made the arrest, H. C. Plunkham, Medical Examiner Howe, Dr. F. W. Draper, Dr. Crawford, Levi Carlotta, Felix Bourage. Wilton himself testified yesterday morning. Lawyer De Courcy, counsel for defence, and District Attorney Moody for the government. Each occupied about an hour in presenting their arguments. The jury retired at about 12.50 o'clock, and returned at about 3.30 o'clock with the verdict of assault and battery.

The court adjourned until Monday morning at Salem. Wilton's sentence will probably be given early next week.

Death of an Old Resident.

The following from a recent copy of the Sturgis Mich. Times is part of an obituary notice of an old North Andover resident:

"Hiram O. Tuttle died at the family home in Sturgis, Tuesday. His death will be a great surprise to many of our readers. He was ill but a few days with the grippe, a week ago Sunday attending the Presbyterian Church as devoted as ever. Mr. Tuttle was born in Lee, N. H., May 19, 1811. He was of old New England stock, one of 14 children, all of whom lived to a good old age and raised families. January 10, 1839, Hiram Tuttle was united in marriage with Harriet N. Hodsdon, at Osipee Centre, N. H. They resided at North Andover Centre until 1852, when they came to Sturgis. Mrs. Tuttle died April 12, 1872.

Nov. 13, 1877, Mr. Tuttle was joined in marriage with Mrs. L. B. Rowley of Sturgis, who, with Mr. Tuttle's four children, survive him.

Mr. Tuttle has been a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church over 40 years, and was an elder of that body many years and a highly respected citizen of that place. His vocation was contractor and builder when able to work. His work is displayed on the Elliott House, Methodist, Presbyterian and Free Churches, and many other mute objects speak to us that his labors were not in vain. He was identified with the interests of Sturgis so long that it seems impossible he has passed away. The funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian Church, by the pastor, Rev. Hope Ross.

Annual Supper of Congregational Church.

The annual social and supper for the members and attendants of the Congregational Church, an event always pleasantly anticipated by those connected with the church, came to pass on Wednesday evening. A season of social mingling occupied the early evening until the hour of half-past seven o'clock, when Chairman Frye of the social committee extended to all a cordial invitation to the vestry below. The march was rendered by Mr. Frank D. Foster, organist. When all were seated at the tables a blessing was asked by Mr. G. E. Hathorn. Chairman Frye then made a graceful address of welcome in the name of the social committee, expressing the hope that future social committees would continue the custom of thus annually providing for gatherings of this kind. An abundance of edibles was excellently served by a corps of watchful attendants, and an hour, uninterrupted save by the clatter of tongues and dishes, was devoted to this important portion of the evening's programme. A prayer of thanks was rendered by Deacon Stillings.

Mr. Frye then called upon the pastor, Rev. Henry Elbert Barnes, D. D., to preside over the after exercises. A letter was read from Rev. Dr. Barton of the Shawmut Avenue Congregational Church Boston, who was to have been the speaker of the evening, excusing his inability to be present on the plea of a severe cold. A report from the church was made by Deacon Sanborn. Superintendent D. W. Carney spoke for the children of the church, the Sabbath School. Solo, "The Angel," Miss Lillian Cate, contralto, of Lawrence. Miss Ella Currier, president of the Christian Endeavor, reported on matters of interest connected with the society. Soprano solo, "Flor Di Margherita" by Arditi, Mrs. William D. Rundlett. Reports from the Ladies' Aid and Lend-a-Hand Societies were read by the pastor. A solo, "The Arrow and the Song" by Pinsuti, was finely rendered by Miss Cate, and was heartily endorsed. Her response to the recall was the pathetic song, "Daddy," which was touchingly sung.

Prof. J. W. Churchill of Andover, who has before favored North Andover, proved to be a most happy substitute, filling in an admirable manner the time allotted to Dr. Barton. Prof. Churchill spoke a few introductory words in which he referred to the time of his first visit to this church, when he came as a student of the Theological Seminary, at the solicitation of Rev. B. F. Hamilton to attend the dedication. His first reading in public was given in exchange for a debate which was to have taken place between Rev. Joseph Ward and himself at the dedicatory ceremonies. Prof. Churchill gave three dialect readings in his most delightful style, and entertained all very agreeably by his humorous and lifelike portrayals of individual character. The exercises closed with the rendering of a selection from Haydn by the Toy Symphony Orchestra.

The music which greeted the company upon entering the vestry was a piano duet, Galop Brilliant, by Misses Elizabeth M. Saunders and Mary I. Baldwin.

The committee of arrangements was: Hon. N. P. Frye, chairman, Mrs. George E. Hathorn, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Butterworth, Mrs. D. A. Moulton, Mrs. C. E. Stillings, Mrs. C. P. Morrill.
